Paper Cut

Despite the fact that we have a fair supply of newsprint on hand, current serious strikes will undoubtedly mean curtailing production of the local weekly. Rather than cut any subscribers from our mailing list we are reducing the number of pages of our fast growing paper to try and stretch the paper supply until the situation is cleared up. We plan to publish our regular issue every other week until we see just what the situation is.

Vaccinate To Prevent Disease

At the present time there is a world food shortage. It necessarily follows that it is extremely important that we produce all the food possible. To produce more food this means that we must do away with unnecessary losses.

Every year throughout the district there are a number of animals die from the various diseases, namely, Blackleg, Malignant Edema, Hemorrhagic Septicemia, Bangs Disease, etc. These diseases are preventable by vaccination, and all livestock men should see that their animals are protected before any outbreaks of the disease occur.

The prevention of disease depends upon two principles, says Dr. P. R. Talbot, provincial veterinarian, in keeping the disease away from animals, and secondly in immunizing animals against them. Successful control requires the principles of both. The procedure then, is to exercise proper sanitary precautions and to use biological products to immunize animals against disease.

When vaccinating calves against Blackleg and Malignant Edema it is better to use the combination Bactrin, which will immunize the calves against both diseases for life.

Those interested in vaccinating their cattle against Bang's Disease (Contagious Abortion) are reminded that they must send in their applications to the department of agriculture before October 1st for fall vaccination. Full information can be obtained from district agriculturist's office, regarding the assistance available.

Remember the loss of one animal will more than pay for the vaccine required for immunization against disease.

AFU Meeting

There was a fair turn out at the meeting held in the Scout hall on Monday, June 3.

It was decided to hold a sports day on June 21 which is to be a holiday for farmers. The sports will be held in the Carbon Memorial Park. There will be races for the children and plenty of entertainment for young and old.

There will be an intermediate baseball tournament with Greyhurst, Avondale, Orkney and Carbon juniors competing. Swalwell and Carbon will play an exhibition game in the evening. The booth will be operated by the Community Club. The day will close with a big dance in the Scout Hall. Modern and Old Time dances.

Admission to grounds, adults 35¢; students 14 or over 25¢. Everybody welcome so bring a lunch and make a day of it.

Mr Bell, district agriculturist will have a stand in the park and will have a number of interesting pamphlets for distribution and will answer any questions you may care to ask.

This is your day out Mr. Farmer and a lot of work has been done by the committee to make an interesting day for you to turn out and show your appreciation.

It is quite likely that the stores will be closed on this day but watch this paper for announcement.

gratulations to those who took part. Yes, all gained a bit of information—be it reducing exercises, a slight insight in the appearance of a certain individual 30 years from now or how a traffic cop would deal with his victim. Honorable mention to Mrs. Leo Ohlhauser who won the famous prize, a package of gum, in the Husband Calling contest.

Breathing time was then given while those who wished looked over the display of handicraft work and baking done by the school children and several contributions made by the parents.

Mr. Adam Buyer very capably auctioned the articles to a responsive (?) audience.

After the auction the members of the Mosher School sold lunch consisting of hot dogs and soft drinks.

Net proceeds for the evening were $59.00 which will be forwarded to the Junior Red Cross in Calgary.

Crop Report

For the fifth week in succession the moisture condition of the prairie provinces has declined. The total moisture condition for the three provinces together weighted for wheat acreage, is now 79 percent of normal, which shows a decline of two percent from last week of 81 percent compared with 90.7 percent at this time a year ago.

The condition for Alberta is 75 percent of normal, compared with 77 percent last week and 83 percent at this time a year ago.

In Alberta Crop District No. 6 is normal; No. 13 is considerably better than normal; all the rest have below normal moisture.

The drouth which has continued steadily from April 1st is now on the point of becoming serious. At this moment crops are not suffering but from this time on crops will deteriorate unless good prairie wide rains soon occur.

Mosher School Concert

A pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present at the Junior Red Cross Social held at Mosher school on May 30th.

The first part of the evening the majority played softball, horseshoes, and other outdoor games while a number enjoyed crokinole, Chinese checkers etc. indoors. Later all assembled in the school where they were entertained with "Homemade Truth or Consequences." Con-

The Only Remedy for Hunger is FOOD!

The most efficient way in which we can send increased bulk shipments of WHEAT, MEAT, CHEESE and EGGS to needy countries is through the Canadian government food Boards. These increased bulk shipments can only be made providing we reduce our own consumption. Here are five important ways by which we can make greater quantities of food available for export:

(1) BUY AND USE LESS BREAD, FLOUR AND OTHER WHEAT PRODUCTS, MEAT, CHEESE AND EGGS. SUBSTITUTE VEGETABLES, FRUIT AND FISH WHERE POSSIBLE.

(2) KEEP YOUR HOME STOCKS LOW — BUY ONLY ENOUGH FOR IMMEDIATE REQUIREMENTS.

(3) AVOID ALL WASTE.

(4) GROW A VICTORY GARDEN AGAIN THIS YEAR. PLANT MORE THIS TIME IF YOU CAN.

(5) DONATE ANY MEAT COUPONS YOU CAN SPARE. ENQUIRE AT YOUR LOCAL RATION BOARD.

Share with the hungry!

JUNE IS CENSUS MONTH IN WESTERN CANADA

EVERY FIVE YEARS the Dominion Government assembles facts about Western Canada — facts which, when they are sorted out, will answer many vitally important questions concerning population, agriculture, housing etc.

To get these facts the Dominion Bureau of Statistics goes to the people themselves. No one else can supply so accurately the information which will guide all governments — Dominion, Provincial and Municipal — in policy-making during the critical years ahead.

This year is Census year, and June is Census month. A new and very important feature will be collection of facts on housing in cities and towns of over 5,000 population.

This 1946 Census is of special interest because it will provide the first reliable picture of Post-War Canada. It is the Reconstruction Census.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO YOU, AND YOU CAN HELP—by answering all questions frankly and correctly when the Official Enumerator calls at your home. There is no reason to withhold information; the enumerator is sworn to secrecy and you can place absolute trust in him. Both he and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics will hold all information in strictest confidence; it can never be used against you by any tax-collecting or other agency or in any court of law.

It is compulsory by law to answer the questions, but, more important, it is good citizenship to reply . . . frankly and accurately.

World Famine

Food Crisis Has Reached An Acute Stage

The world food crisis has reached a stage at which decisions must be made—as they are being made, right now, by the Combined Food Board at Washington—in terms of who shall starve. The word "starve" is used here in no mere rhetorical sense. It is being decided who—in what nation and areas—shall starve to death before the present spring and summer are over. It is too late to talk in terms of averting famine. In China, people with the skeletonized bodies and distended bellies of the acutely starving are already dying. In India, deaths are near, if they have not by this time begun. The situation over most of Europe is hardly better and steadily worsening.

MOVE SUPPLIES FOR DRILL CAMPAIGN—A picture-taking American tourist from Bridgeport, Conn., Frank Salerno, left, met Mike Mitto, centre, millionaire Canadian prospector, in Yellowknife, 1,000 miles north of the American border in Canada's Northwest Territories, last summer. Salerno helped Mitto stake the now famous Salmita prospect, and the lad is now reputed to be worth $175,000. This picture airmailed from Yellowknife shows them busily preparing to move supplies from their Yellowknife depot to the property for a diamond drill campaign which could make them into multi-millionaires overnight—if their luck continues.

Little Guy In The Middle Bracket Pays And Pays

It is predicted that low incomes and excess profits may both escape taxation in the next fiscal budget. But, says T. R. Richards, in the Toronto Telegram, the poor little guy in the middle will pay and pay. It's time somebody did something for the little guy in the middle. He isn't rich enough for high expenses not to hurt and he isn't poor enough to share in the free services provided for the poor. He is too proud to beg, too honest to steal and usually has a heck of a time trying to make his income stretch over his outgo.

The Uncertainty About American Participation In World Affairs

Uncertainty about American participation in world affairs is at the root of many problems which are complicating the job of peace-making and impeding the establishment of international security. It is partly responsible for France's insistence that Germany be further dismembered. It helps to explain the manoeuvring for power positions in the Mediterranean. Above all, it is a factor in Russia's effort to secure an impregnable world position through her own unilateral efforts. Unless the ghost of American isolationism is laid for good and all, anxiety about our future course will persist and a stable peace will be impossible. Innumerable details and adjustments will need to be worked out. But in the process, let us never lose sight of the essential fact—that the paramount purpose of the treaty is to prove beyond all possible question that we have driven the final nail into the coffin of American isolationism. For that purpose alone, the pact deserves the whole-hearted and consistent support of the American people.—Providence Journal.

RHUBARB—A SPRING TONIC

When Spring fever strikes and the appetite goes into a slump, a new dish is better than a tonic to revive it. An exciting dessert containing Spring-like ingredients will perk up jaded food interest at the first mouthful. Rhubarb, lovely to look at, is a gourmet's delight when served as sauce or incorporated in one of the many dessert dishes that are typical of spring. Here is rhubarb in a pudding that will be just your dish.

Rhubarb Crisp

1 1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups small toasted bread cubes
2 cups corn flakes
4 cups diced fresh rhubarb
1/2 cup sugar
Blend butter and 1 1/2 cup sugar thoroughly; add eggs and beat well. Stir in nutmeg, flavoring, bread cubes and corn flakes. Place half of mixture in buttered baking dish; arrange rhubarb evenly over top and sprinkle with 1/4 cup sugar; cover with remaining creamed mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) about 35 minutes or until rhubarb is done.

Yield: 8 servings (8 1/2-inch casseroles).

The King's Relations With The Dominions Since They Acquired Equality Of Status

(By Sir Shuldham Redfern in the London Spectator)

SINCE the Dominions acquired equality of status with the United Kingdom and with one another, the position of the Sovereign in all of them is identical. His Majesty is no less King of South Africa than he is King of England. The people of Australia and New Zealand owe allegiance to the same Sovereign as the people of Canada.

The fact that the King's permanent home is in Great Britain is irrelevant to the fact that His Majesty is in theory concerned with the affairs no less of South Africa than of the country in which he happens to live. He would be just as much King of England if he lived in New Zealand. In practice, however, the King performs a dual function.

He is the Sovereign head of each of the five states which go to make up the British Commonwealth of Nations under the Crown. He is also, in respect of one of them—Great Britain—concerned with the normal daily routine of state business, and performs such duties as are carried out by his representatives in the Dominions.

The British Commonwealth and Empire has not been built up by any logical or even legalistic process. If it had been, the natural result of the grant of equality of status to the Dominions would have been the appointment of a Governor-General of Great Britain and, so far as the King is concerned, to substitute for a detailed interest in the day-to-day affairs of government at Westminster a general interest in each and all of the five nations of the Commonwealth. But it should, nevertheless, be recognized that, just as the King's absence from Great Britain creates an abnormal situation, so His Majesty's absence from the Dominions is equally abnormal. If equality of status under the Crown means anything, it means that in each Dominion a normal state of affairs exists only when the King is actually present.

There appear to be two ways of making provision for the carrying out of the royal functions during His Majesty's absence. In Great Britain it has been customary to appoint a Council of State. This is a somewhat cumbersome system, but the Council is designed to perform only the simple and formal duties in relation to affairs of state. For the most part these duties consist of the automatic affixing of signatures. It is questionable whether a Council of State would be adequate if the King were absent for more than a few months.

In the other Dominions, however, where the absence of the Sovereign is for much longer periods, a representative is appointed on the recommendation of the Prime Minister concerned. The title of Governor-General has been retained, but the functions of the Governor-General are now entirely different from what they were before the passing of the Statute of Westminster in 1931. He has one duty and one duty only, and that is to represent the King. The fact that he may be English does not impose on him any obligation to act as an intermediary between his own country and the country in which he represents the Crown. In fact, he has to be most careful not to do so. He may enjoy considerable prestige on his own account and by virtue of his office, but this is not allowed to obscure the fact that he is temporarily representing someone else. When the King is present, the Governor-General has no status and the reason for his existence automatically disappears.

This position was clearly demonstrated when the King visited Canada in 1939. The Governor-General did not even meet him on arrival. He acted as His Majesty's host in Ottawa, but the relationship between the King and the Governor-General was a social and not an official one.

These arrangements might well be reviewed in the light of present conditions. The practical, though not the theoretical, difference in the present relationship between the Crown and Great Britain and the Crown and the self-governing Dominions constitutes an inequality which in due course might prejudice the fullest possible co-operation which is so essential a feature of the British Commonwealth.

In such circumstances, it may be hoped that rapidly improving communications will enable the King to visit his overseas possessions more frequently than has been hitherto possible. His Majesty should be able to go to Ottawa or Canberra or Pretoria in order to live and reign and with no more ceremony than is incurred by a visit to Windsor or Balmoral.

The overseas Dominions of the British Commonwealth have acquired a new consciousness and a new sense of their importance as world Powers. They are sensitive to any suggestion that they are inferior in status or stature to Great Britain. They are nevertheless proud of their origins, and prouder still of the manner of their progression from colonial dependency to fully autonomous self-government. They are jealous of their loyalty and devotion to the Crown.

At the same time they recognize that, in a world of shifting allegiances and unstable alliances, no constitutional force can be taken for granted, and every institution, if it is to endure, must be brought into line with rapidly changing circumstances. They realize that the British Empire is not so much an end in itself as an intermediate structure in an eventual international organization.

To such an organization they would probably be prepared to sacrifice something of their sovereignty if every other nation did likewise, but they will never do so until they have first exercised it to the full. And if their complete independence and sovereignty in every detail are recognized by the people of this country, then will they co-operate on equal terms to the benefit of all those with whom they are associated. But to whatever extent inequalities are allowed to remain, the full measure of mutual co-operation is likely to be diminished.

Irish Tongue Appears To Be On The Wane In Eire

The sad news for the lovers of the native Irish tongue is that its use is dwindling despite all efforts of the Government to stimulate it.

The Dail (Eire's Parliament) heard Premier de Valera admit as much. He told members influences against the language—radio, newspapers and movies—were strong, but must be faced.

Education Minister Derrig said that people in Irish-speaking areas were conscious of the fact they were living in poor and barren districts and might have to leave them for economic reasons. Therefore they found it essential to know English.

Atom Bomb Test

United States Has Sent Out Many Invitations To View The Experiment

Dean Acheson, acting Secretary of State, announced that the United States would invite all countries having membership on the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission to send governmental and press observers to the atomic bomb tests in the Pacific.

Mr. Acheson said the invitations will go to Russia, Britain, France, China, Canada, Australia, Brazil, Egypt, Mexico, The Netherlands and Poland.

The 11 members of the U.N. Security Council plus Canada have membership on the Atomic Energy Commission established under terms of the Big Three agreement at Moscow last December.

The tests are scheduled to be held during July and August at Bikini Atoll in the Marshall Islands.

Mr. Acheson's announcement, issued by the State Department press branch, emphasized that the test project is "in its entirety, an undertaking of the United States Government and is not a combined or international operation."

Great Resources Of Hard Coal Said To Be Lying Almost Unused In Peace River Canyon

(By David M. Nichol, Chicago Daily News Service)

ONE of the great reserves of anthracite, or hard coal, in North America lies almost untouched and inaccessible in the canyon of the Peace River, about 70 miles west of Fort St. John, B.C. Experts say there are some 600 million tons in the rich seams close to the surface at Hudson Hope and exposed where the rushing waters have cut deep into the ground. This is 10 times the yearly output of the entire United States.

Another large deposit, less well surveyed, exists 40 miles farther west in the Carbon river region.

Like so much of the Canadian Northwest, coal development is in its infancy. This still is the land of pioneers. The only operating mine, for example, is run by the son of the prospector who staked the original claims in 1904.

Transport is the key to the region's future. No railroad comes now within miles of it. River barges have been tried but without much success. They still would open only the limited market of the Fort St. John area.

Surveys are being made, however, for an extension of the Pacific and Great Eastern railroad north from Quesnel for 350 miles. Should this line be built, not only the coal fields but the fabulous wheat farms of the Peace River block would have easy access to west coast ports and cities. The road first was proposed in 1912.

Tests of the coal, by railroad and Government experts, have shown it to be unusually high in heat content and low in ash. It compares most closely with high grade West Virginia coal.

Men have known of the deposits for more than 100 years since the fur traders pushed their way into the area. They picked the coal from the canyon walls for use by their blacksmiths.

Not until 1904 was the original claim staked by Neil Gething, of Vancouver. Development was agonizingly slow. Then came war and the urgency of constructing the northwest staging route for aircraft and the Alaska Highway, both of which pass through Fort St. John.

Winter, in 1942-43, was savage and bitter. U.S. Army officers, seeking sources of fuel for their camps, turned to the Hudson Hope field. Gething's son, Lloyd, undertook to provide the coal. A small tipple was built. Trucks brought the product to Fort St. John.

What may some day be a great new industry for this region came into being.

"The departure of the Army last year brought a cutback in production, but the mine still is turning out about 50 tons daily.

Lloyd Gething, himself, is a modest and unassuming man. Hatless and coatless in the warm Spring sun, he was chatting with the editor for Fort St. John's weekly newspaper when I met him. He shares one thing with the popular concept of wilderness prospector—a passionate faith in the future of this area.

A Great Chance

Immigrants From Europe Could Do Much With Vacant Farms

One of the most pathetic sights in Manitoba is the abandoned farm. We have many of them, monuments to something. Saskatchewan has more and there are others in Alberta. Something must be wrong somewhere on this problem. Maybe the provincial governments overlook the reason, or, like the people, do not know the why of the desolate farms, loaded with growth and weeds, empty barns and dwellings. Even Ontario supposedly a banner province, acknowledges eight thousand vacant farms. It would be a great revelation to all Canadians today if Norwegians, Belgians or Danes were permitted to enter this Dominion and to take over the vacant farms. And what they would do with them would be a better lesson in agriculture than any college could give to young workers of the soil.—Brandon Sun.

Canada's Envoy

Suggestion Is Made For Increase In Allowances

Suggestion that allowances paid Canada's diplomatic representatives abroad should be increased was advanced by Senator Thomas Vien (L—Quebec), at a meeting of the Senate external affairs committee.

Senator Vien said there was a feeling on the part of some members of Canadian missions that they were unable to meet the obligations of their position with the present allowances.

Norman Robertson, under-secretary of state for external affairs, who was before the committee as a witness, said he agreed they should be in a position to meet obligations. In some countries difficulties had been experienced in putting representatives in a position to meet rapidly increasing living costs.

IRAN TROUBLES DOMESTIC, TOO—WIFE SPURNS SHAH—A distance of 1,000 miles and a whirlpool of emotions today separate Princess Fawzia of Egypt, lovely 25-year-old queen of Iran, from her husband, the Shah. He is in Teheran; she in Cairo with her brother, King Farouk of Egypt. She is trying to decide whether to go on pressing for a divorce or to return to the handsome but autocratic young Shah. Reports that the pair was negotiating a divorce have been officially denied by the Iranian embassy in Cairo, but nevertheless the queen refuses to return, and it is apparent that relations between herself and the Shah are not improving.
